Responsible:

In the month of March, students will focus on responsible:

1. I can be responsible for my actions when others are having big emotions.
2. I can be responsible for my actions when I am having big emotions.
3. I can be responsible for my actions.

We show responsibility by:

- recognizing when others have big emotions
- thinking before I act
- choosing a response that helps others through their big emotion
- giving myself space until their big emotion gets smaller
- allowing others space when they have big emotions

At home:

Talk about big emotions that happen in the home and discuss ways they can help others handle those big emotions in a responsible way. Discuss times when you have had big emotions and others helped you by giving you space and not engaging with you. This allows you to make good choices and to respect others while you felt those emotions.
